We attended SEMICON Taiwan 2026 and hosted a SEMICON Booth Tour during 3-4th September 2026. On 3rd Sep, we hosted 8 companies including Ebara (6361.T, Buy), Tokyo Seimitsu (7729.T, Sell), Shibaura (6590.T, not covered), Lasertec (6920.T, Buy), MPI (6223.TWO, Buy), WinWay (6515.TW, Buy), Hermes Testing Solutions (HTSI, 7856.TWO, not covered) and All Ring (6187.TWO, Buy).

Our key takeaways include: 1) AI-related advanced-packaging demand remains strong into 2027, with OSAT orders accelerating alongside foundry demand; 2) CPO equipment is moving closer to mass production in late 2026 with a broader ramp up in 2027, although the testing flow remains fluid and some suppliers increasingly expect Insertion 3 testing step to represent the larger near-term equipment opportunity as some Insertion 2 demand could shift from foundry to OSATs; 3) rising AI/HPC test complexity continues to drive higher test equipment and test interface content, including testers, prober, probe-card, socket and thermal-management content, etc.; and 4) FOPLP (fan out panel level packaging) and hybrid bonding are emerging as the next equipment opportunities. Below, we provide more detailed takeaways for the Taiwan Semiconductors we visited.

MPI (6223.TWO; Buy)

MPI showcased its new CPO prober solution - TS3500-IFE, a fully automated platform designed for the Insertion 2 stage of CPO testing. Management said development and customer engagement are progressing smoothly across multiple customers and are not limited to foundry demand, and is on track for initial volume shipments by end-2026. MPI views automation as a key differentiator vs. its key peer.

As for CPO Insertion 3, MPI believes its solution is not a head-to-head compete with competitors (e.g. Ficontec etc.) as its uses probe cards whereas the others use a socket-based architecture. Management highlighted that a device can pass through multiple test and inspection steps at die-level testing and therefore does not view the two solutions as directly comparable.

MPI also showcased its new 100k-pin probe card, which is already in mass production for AI/HPC devices featuring micro-bump interconnects. This probe card

Goldman Sachs does and seeks to do business with companies covered in its research reports. As a result, investors should be aware that the firm may have a conflict of interest that could affect the objectivity of this report. Investors should consider this report as only a single factor in making their investment decision. supports 4-die testing per touchdown, equivalent to approximately 25k pins per die. Management said the product is in mass production with multiple customers. Management also cited recent customer wins. The US CPU customer started approaching MPI in 1Q26 and placed order at MPI in mid-2026, with management characterizing the share gain as being against its key overseas peer.

WinWay (6515.TW; Buy)

Capacity expansion supports rising AI test-interface content. WinWay currently has pogo-pin capacity of approximately 6mn units per month, with 40-50% produced in-house and the rest outsourced mainly from Japanese suppliers (and some Korean suppliers). The company targets annual micro-drilling capacity to double to 180-200mn holes in 2026 from less than 100mn in 2025 (equivalent to 36k-40k socket, based on 5k pins per socket).

The company is also co-developing a liquid-cooling test socket with a customer, although the product is not yet ready for volume production. For Hypersocket adoption, management continue to expect it to account for around 5% of its revenue in 2027. In terms of new customers, the company sees potential new progress with a US IDM customer in 2027.

Hermes Testing Solutions Inc. (HTSI; 7856 TT; not covered)

Company background: Hermes Testing Solutions Inc. (HTSI) is a Taiwan-based semiconductor testing equipment and engineering-service provider. Its portfolio spans 1) probe cards and probe-card cleaning materials, 2) prober (TEL prober) installation and engineering services, thermal-control modules, and 3) equipment for CPO and advanced packaging, including optical alignment and reflow tools. The company operates as both a product supplier and a system-integration/OEM partner to global equipment vendors.

HTSI sees its thermal module as one of its key growth drivers for 2026 and into 2027. Its thermal module is installed on probers to cool the probe card and reduce the risk of burned probe needles. The product has contributed more than 30% of revenue in 2026 to date and is currently used mainly for US GPU customers' devices. Management noted the attachment ratio of roughly 80-90% to prober shipment. A second-generation module, now under verification for CPU and TPU customers, could carry a 30-50% higher ASP. Management sees potential for at least around 30% penetration for the new module in 2027.

Meanwhile, Management also expects the TEL prober installation volumes to accelerate into 2027. HTSI is currently the sole service provider for TEL prober installation (mainly for Taiwan). Management expects installation volumes to double in 2026 and more than double in 2027. Management noted that while it is still too early to comment on 2028, they see at least another 30-50% of growth into 2028.

A lot of discussions also surrounded CPO. For Insertion 1, the company provides alignment equipment, and it is now waiting for its partner to finalize the software side ahead of an initial shipment to a customer in Singapore. It will also do alignment technique licensing to foundry partner.

For Insertion 2, HTSI works with Ficontec as an OEM partner. While HTSI sees the possibility for foundry to bypass Insertion 2 when entering mass production, it sees leading GPU customers still wanting to do Insertion 2 testing with potential demand shifting to the OSAT side. In terms of Insertion 3, HTSI is also collaborating with Ficontec for handler. HTSI cited potential industry demand of around 600 units in 2027. Overall, HTSI is preparing CPO capacity ahead of a broader 2027 ramp. The company expects cleanroom capacity of 20-30 units per month to be ready in 1Q27.

Probe-card development adds another potential leg of growth. HTSI's membrane probe card targets 30-50μm-pitch, high-speed/high-frequency applications and is already supplied to foundry customers. The company is also trying to penetrate the TIA market with a US fabless customer, with qualification progress checkpoint expected by end-2026. For vertical probe cards, HTSI currently has capacity of around 30-50k pin per month, with expansion under way. In MEMS, HTSI is working with MJC and expects its first AI-related sample out in 2Q27.

Reflow equipment is moving from initial shipment toward broader OSAT adoption. HTSI has shipped its first reflow tool to one OSAT customer and expects another 1 to 2 shipments to other OSATs by end-2026. Management expects around 5-10 units shipments in 2027, followed by a larger ramp in 2028. Overall, management is targeting total group revenue to roughly double in 2027 and sees the potential for an even stronger growth in 2028.

All Ring (6187.TWO; Buy)

All Ring showcased a broadened CPO-related equipment portfolio across inspection, optical coupling and post-clean inspection. The company showcased three key CPO solutions: 1) IQC 3D metrology - automated optical inspection and metrology equipment, 2) CPO active alignment coupling system - optical-coupling equipment for both packaging and die level, and 3) CO2 cleaning AOI detection machine, which can address particle risk after coupling and during product transfer.

Management believes the key differentiation for its CPO active alignment coupling system lies in its in-house six-axis module design. All Ring designs the full six-axis active-alignment system internally, unlike many peers that source standard modules from third parties.

While remaining under qualification, the company addressed its positiveness towards its advanced underfill dispenser for the Chip-on-Wafer (CoW) side and Chip-on-Panel (CoP) side of the process, which could create more dollar content as currently All Ring's equipment solutions are mostly for the WoS (wafer-on-substrate) side.

GS Factor Profile

The Goldman Sachs Factor Profile provides investment contextor a stock by comparing key attributes to the market (i.e. our universe of rated stocks) and its sector peers. Theour key attributes depicted are: Growth, Financial Returns, Multiple (e.g. valuation) and Integrated (a composite of Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple). Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple are calculated by using normalized ranksor specific metricsor each stock. The normalized ranksor the metrics are then averaged and converted into percentilesor the relevant attribute. The precise calculation of each metric may vary depending on the fiscal year, industry and region, but the standard approach is asollows:

Growth is based on a stock'sorward-looking sales growth, EBITDA growth and EPS growth (or financial stocks, only EPS and sales growth), with a higher percentile indicating a higher growth company. Financial Returns is based on a stock'sorward-looking ROE, ROCE and CROCI (or financial stocks, only ROE), with a higher percentile indicating a company with higher financial returns. Multiple is based on a stock'sorward-looking P/E, P/B, price/dividend (P/D), EV/EBITDA, EV/FCF and EV/Debt Adjusted Cash Flow (DACF) (or financial stocks, only P/E, P/B and P/D), with a higher percentile indicating a stock trading at a higher multiple. The Integrated percentile is calculated as the average of the Growth percentile, Financial Returns percentile and (100% - Multiple percentile).

Financial Returns and Multiple use the Goldman Sachs analystorecasts at the fiscal year-end at least three quarters in theuture. Growth uses inputs or the fiscal year at least seven quarters in theuture compared with the year at least three quarters in theuture (on a per-share basisor all metrics).

M&A Rank

Across our global coverage, we examine stocks using an M&A framework, considering both qualitativeactors and quantitativeactors (which may vary across sectors and regions) to incorporate the potential that certain companies could be acquired. We then assign a M&A rank as a means of scoring companies under our rated coverage from 1 to 3, with 1 representing high (30%-50%) probability of the company becoming an acquisition target, 2 representing medium (15%-30%) probability and 3 representing low (0%-15%) probability. For companies ranked 1 or 2, in line with our standard departmental guidelines we incorporate an M&A component into our target price. M&A rank of 3 is considered immaterial and thereore does not actor into our price target, and may or may not be discussed in research.

Ratings, coverage universe and related definitions

Buy (B), Neutral (N), Sell (S) Analysts recommend stocks as Buys or Sells for inclusion on various regional Investment Lists. Being assigned a Buy or Sell on an Investment List is determined by a stock's total return potential relative to its coverage universe. Any stock not assigned as a Buy or a Sell on an Investment List with an active rating (i.e., a stock that is not Rating Suspended, Not Rated, Early-Stage Biotech, Coverage Suspended or Not Covered), is deemed Neutral. Each region manages Regional Conviction Lists, which are selected from Buy rated stocks on the respective region's Investment Lists and represent investment recommendations focused on the size of the total return potential and/or the likelihood of the realization of the return across their respective areas of coverage. The addition or removal of stocks from such Conviction Lists are managed by the Investment Review Committee or other designated committee in each respective region and do not represent a change in the analysts' investment rating for such stocks.

Total return potential represents the upside or downside differential between the current share price and the price target, including all paid or anticipated dividends, expected during the time horizon associated with the price target. Price targets are required for all covered stocks. The total return potential, price target and associated time horizon are stated in each report adding or reiterating an Investment List membership.

Coverage Universe: A list of all stocks in each coverage universe is available by primary analyst, stock and coverage universe at https://www.gs.com/research/hedge.html.

Not Rated (NR). The investment rating, target price and earnings estimates (where relevant) are removed pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when Goldman Sachs is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or in a strategic transaction involving this company, when there are legal, regulatory or policy constraints due to Goldman Sachs' involvement in a transaction, and in certain other circumstances. Early-Stage Biotech (ES). An investment rating and a target price are not assigned pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when this company has neither a drug, treatment or medical device that has passed a Phase II clinical trial nor a license to distribute a post-Phase II drug, treatment or medical device. Rating Suspended (RS). Goldman Sachs Research has suspended the investment rating and price target for this stock, because there is not a sufficient fundamental basis for determining an investment rating or target price. The previous investment rating and target price, if any, are no longer in effect for this stock and should not be relied upon. Coverage Suspended (CS). Goldman Sachs has suspended coverage of this company. Not Covered (NC). Goldman Sachs does not cover this company.
